

Redness can happen when the skin is very sensitive and hyper reactive.

Do NOT use coconut oil. It will make it worse.

Just work with pure olive oil, and calendula salve (<https://yumnaturals.store/product/calendula-wound-care-salve-wound-care/>) or oil, or jewelweed (<https://yumnaturals.store/product/wildcrafted-jewelweed-itch-me-not-salve/>). Use own fresh urine on the rash as well, before applying any oils. It will calm things down immensely. Give a magnesium and vitamin C supplement (powder in a drink format) - Also give melange tissue salts twice a day.

Peel organic potatoes in thin slices and apply to the skin, wrap with gauze, leave on either overnight or for a few hours in the day, whatever works.

Give 1/2 tsp diatomaceous earth (<https://yumnaturals.store/product/food-grade-diatomaceous-earth-powder/>) and 1/2 tsp activated charcoal in unsweetened organic apple sauce once a day for 4 days a week. Make sure good, pure water is being ingested.

Once the skin calms down, try some new test patches with the lotion but only on NORMAL skin, not on the inflamed skin. This lotion works from the inside out.
